CHARLESTON, WV (WOAY) - A new bill introduced in the House of Delegates on Friday would ban abortions if a heartbeat is detected.

House Bill 2915, sponsored by Steele (R - Raleigh), Fast (R - Fayette), Kessinger (R - Fayette), Shott (R - Mercer), would restrict the performance of abortions when a fetal heartbeat is found and under other circumstances. It also prohibits persons from acquiring, providing, receiving, otherwise transferring, or using fetal body parts.

The ACLU of West Virginia says the bill would be unconstitutional.
