

FAYETTE COUNTY 911 DIRECTOR NO LONGER EMPLOYED AMID OUTCRY OVER FACEBOOK POST

Posted on February 2, 2019 by Tyler Barker

FAYETTE COUNTY, WV (WOAY) - Fayette County's Deputy Director of Emergency Management is no longer employed.

WOAY can confirm that Jamie Bennett, is no longer employed with the Fayette County 911 Center as of Saturday afternoon.

WOAY received many complaints regarding a racial post made by Mark Wilson, current Raleigh County Deputy Director of Emergency Management. The post made by Wilson can be seen below. Bennett commented under his post by writing, "What like your office wall" and Wilson responded with, "shhh."

Mark Wilson

Yesterday at 6:30 PM ·

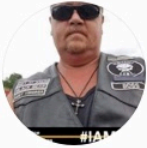

BE THANKFUL DONALD TRUMP IS BUILDING THE WALL!
MINE WOULD LOOK MORE LIKE THIS!

Like

Comment

Share

Jamie Bennett

What like your office wall 😏

19h Like Reply

Mark Wilson

Shhhhhhh.....

19h Like Reply

WOAY has reached out to Raleigh County Commission over Bennett's alleged racial post, but we haven't received any responses yet.

WOAY will continue to follow this developing story.