

FRIDAY PM WEB WEATHER UPDATE

Posted on January 13, 2017 by Tyler Barker

Good Friday evening, rain is moving back into the forecast and will last through then night time hours and all of Saturday. Temperatures are in the 40's and will fall into the upper 30's overnight. There is a Freezing Rain Advisory in effect for Monroe and Eastern Greenbrier County until 4pm Saturday afternoon. Expect up to a .10" of ice in Monroe; while Greenbrier County could see up to .20". South of I-64 will be all rain; it's the area north of I-64 that has the concern of seeing ice. We will dry out some on Sunday with temperatures in the 40's, but more rain and warmer temps back in the forecast next week. #wvwx Chief Meteorologist Tyler Barker