White Sulphur Springs(WOAY) - The final day of the Greenbrier Champions Tennis Classic took place at the Greenbrier Tennis Center in front of another sell out crowd.

Day two consisted of a legends match between two former number one men tennis players in Morat Safin and Carlos Moya. Moya would win the match in the tiebreaking set.

The real fun started when the mixed-doubles event started. Serena Williams paired up with Kevin Anderson and Venus Williams with Marcos Baghdatis. The mix-doubles match was light-hearted with the players interacting with the crowd, receiving laughter and smiles. Venus even got up and danced for the crowd to Bruno Mars' Uptown Funk. Serena Williams and Kevin Anderson would win in two sets.

Cam Huffman Director of Media Relations explains what fans saw over the tennis filled weekend.
